Security asked █████ if he wanted █████ removed from the establishment. █████ stated he did not care if █████ was removed, because he was leaving. █████ yelled, “Fuck you!” several times toward █████ as █████ spoke to security. As █████ approached █████ █████ stated, “Oh, this ugly cunt.” “I would never buy this cunt a drink.” █████ became upset with █████ behavior and exited the establishment. As █████ walked toward his vehicle, he observed █████ in the middle of the street.

“Oh, there’s the fuckin’ tough guy,” █████ stated. █████ and █████ exchanged words. Suddenly, █████ observed Officer Gevrekis in his peripheral vision, approaching him from the side. After removing his gun, Officer Gevrekis pointed the gun in the direction of █████ and █████. Officer Gevrekis was approximately three feet away from █████ and █████ when he drew and pointed his gun. █████ and █████ placed themselves in front of █████. █████ asked Officer Gevrekis if he was really going to shoot him, because he, Officer Gevrekis, was the one who assaulted him. Officer Gevrekis repeated to █████ “You fucked up!”

Patrons from the bar gathered and told Officer Gevrekis to put his gun down. Officer Gevrekis lowered his gun, but still had the gun in his hand. CONCLUSION:

The R/I recommends a finding of SUSTAINED for Allegation #1, that Officer Gevrekis struck [REDACTED] about her face with his hand/fist. Officer Gevrekis denied the allegation. Witnesses [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] supported Officer Gevrekis' account. [REDACTED] recollection of the incident is questionable. [REDACTED] admitted he was dazed and confused as to what was occurring after he was struck by [REDACTED] which allegedly occurred prior to Officer Gevrekis striking [REDACTED]. Furthermore, [REDACTED] admitted he was "buzzed/intoxicated" during this incident. However, witnesses [REDACTED] [REDACTED] [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] all supported [REDACTED] account of the incident. Their accounts were consistent and credible. [REDACTED] account is also supported and documented in the paramedic's report, medical records, and photographs. Based on the totality of the circumstances, weighing the witness statements and medical evidence there is a preponderance of evidence showing that Officer Gevrekis struck [REDACTED] about her face with his hand/fist.

The R/I recommends a finding of SUSTAINED for Allegation #2, that Officer Gevrekis referred to [REDACTED] in derogatory terms. In his statement to IPRA, Officer Gevrekis admitted he stated words to the effect of [REDACTED] being a "crazy bitch."

The R/I recommends a finding of SUSTAINED for Allegation #3 that Officer Gevrekis searched [REDACTED] vehicle without justification. Officer Gevrekis claims that he stood between the door jamb of the vehicle, but denies searching the vehicle. Per [REDACTED] Officer Gevrekis approached her as she was retrieving items from [REDACTED] vehicle, and stated that he had probable cause to search the vehicle, and did so. In the process of searching the vehicle, Officer Gevrekis retrieved [REDACTED] driving license from the vehicle. Responding officers retrieved the driver's license from Officer Gevrekis and returned it to [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] account of the incident is corroborated by [REDACTED] account. Based on the totality of the circumstances, there is a preponderance of evidence to believe Officer Gevrekis searched [REDACTED] vehicle without justification.

The R/I recommends a finding of NOT SUSTAINED for Allegation #4, that Officer Gevrekis threw [REDACTED] belongings from his vehicle. Officer Gevrekis denied this allegation, and there is insufficient evidence to either prove or disprove this allegation.

The R/I recommends a finding of SUSTAINED for Allegation #5, that Officer Gevrekis struck [REDACTED] about his face with an unknown object. [REDACTED] provided a consistent and credible account of the incident to IPRA and Detectives. [REDACTED] account of being struck by Officer Gevrekis was supported by Witnesses [REDACTED], and [REDACTED] [REDACTED] sustained an abrasion to his right cheek bone area, which is documented in evidence photographs. The documented injury gives credence to [REDACTED] account of Officer Gevrekis striking him with an unknown object<sup>6</sup>. [REDACTED] voluntarily reported to Area 5 to provide an interview to Detectives.

Relevant to this instance is the automobile exception. Under the automobile exception, an officer may conduct a warrantless search of a vehicle only where the officer has probable cause to believe that a vehicle contains contraband or evidence of a crime. People v. Boyd, 86 Ill.App.3d 73, 75 (1st Dist. 1980) (emphasis added). It is important to note that an officer is not always on duty for Fourth Amendment purposes and instead a search conducted by an off-duty officer will be deemed a private search if (1) acting on his own initiative, and (2) his primary motivation for searching was uniquely personal. United States v. Ginglen, 467 F.3d 1071, 1074-1076 (7th Cir. 2006). An off-duty officer acts as a government agent for the purposes of implicating the Fourth Amendment when he or she engages in a search based on criminal activity in an attempt to gather evidence. Id. When an off-duty officer engages in activity consistent with his capacity as a police officer, the requirements of the Fourth Amendment are invoked.

Officer Gevrekis engaged in activity that was consistent with his capacity as an officer by identifying himself as a police officer and by announcing he had probable cause to search [REDACTED] vehicle. Specifically, Officer Gevrekis stated “this is a police investigation, I have probable cause” before searching the vehicle. Even though Officer Gevrekis was acting on his own initiative, Officer Gevrekis’s motivation for searching the vehicle was not uniquely personal evidence by his statements. As a result, legal justification was required to search [REDACTED] vehicle. In this instance, none of the exceptions to the warrant requirement exist and Officer Gevrekis did not have legal justification to search the vehicle. Based on the totality of the circumstances, there is a preponderance of evidence to believe Officer Gevrekis searched [REDACTED] vehicle without justification.

The R/I recommends a finding of NOT SUSTAINED for Allegation #4, that Officer Gevrekis threw [REDACTED] belongings from his vehicle. Officer Gevrekis denied this allegation and the responding officers did not witness Officer Gevrekis throwing the belongings from the car. As a result, there is insufficient evidence to either prove or disprove this allegation.

The R/I recommends a finding of SUSTAINED for Allegation #5, that Officer Gevrekis struck [REDACTED] about his face with an unknown object. [REDACTED] provided a consistent and credible account of the incident to IPRA and Detectives. [REDACTED] account of being struck by Officer Gevrekis was supported by Witnesses [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] sustained an abrasion to his right cheek bone area, which is documented in evidence photographs. The documented injury gives credence to [REDACTED] account of Officer Gevrekis striking him with an unknown object<sup>6</sup>. [REDACTED] voluntarily reported to Area 5 to provide an interview to Detectives. Upon providing his statement, [REDACTED] was allowed to leave without being charged. [REDACTED] was never placed in custody. The fact that criminal charges were not sought against [REDACTED] suggests Detectives believed [REDACTED] account of the incident was credible and that no probable cause existed for arresting [REDACTED]. Furthermore, Officer Gevrekis’ reasoning for not pursuing criminal charges against [REDACTED] is questionable. Officer Gevrekis’s reasoning for not pursuing criminal charges was that he was unsure if IPRA’s investigation into the incident had to be completed before he sought criminal charges against [REDACTED]. Officer Gevrekis has been a Chicago Police Officer for 20 years and with so many years of experience on the job and being an officer, Officer Gevrekis should be knowledgeable to the fact that an administrative investigation does not supersede a criminal investigation. Based on the totality of the circumstances, there is a preponderance of evidence to believe Officer Gevrekis struck [REDACTED] about his face with an unknown object.

The R/I recommends a finding of SUSTAINED for Allegation #6, that Officer Gevrekis pointed his gun in the direction of [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]. Officer Gevrekis stated he was unarmed at the time of incident and denied the allegation. Officer Gevrekis stated he is usually armed when he is off-duty, but he figured he was going to a neighborhood bar and he did not need to be armed. [REDACTED] [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] all related Officer Gevrekis was armed during this incident, and pointed the gun in the direction of [REDACTED], [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]. Witness [REDACTED] stated patrons related to him Officer Gevrekis had a gun. Witness [REDACTED] stated he did not observe Officer Gevrekis with a gun, but related he heard patrons from the bar state, "He's got a gun," in reference to Officer Gevrekis. [REDACTED] described the gun as "pretty small," approximately 5 inches long, silver in color, and not a revolver. A list of firearms registered to Officer Gevrekis shows he owns three .38 caliber handguns; two are revolvers and one is a pistol. The barrel length of the handguns range from 2 to 3 inches. Based on the totality of the circumstances, there is a preponderance of evidence to believe Officer Gevrekis was armed during this incident, and pointed his weapon at [REDACTED] and [REDACTED].
